

INTRODUCTION

Andres Edwards

Andres Edwards is an educator, author, media designer and sustainability consultant. He is founder and president of EduTracks a firm specializing in developing education programs and consulting services on sustainable practices for green building and business initiatives. His work includes developing energy management and sustainability plans for colleges and property managers. Andres is Co-Director of the Center for Livable Futures, which educates local community members and collaborates with higher education institutions, K-12 schools, local organizations and businesses to develop programs that highlight opportunities to support a livable future. He has served as producer, exhibit developer, and consultant for projects in natural history, biodiversity and sustainable community for companies and towns throughout the US and abroad. Andres is co-author with Robert Apte of Tibet: Enduring Spirit, Exploited Land, which examines the relationship of Tibetan nomads and farmers to the environment. His most recent book, The Sustainability Revolution: Portrait of a Paradigm Shift, is a comprehensive primer on the history, evolution and future of the movement toward sustainability from various sectors of society.

If you would like to invite Andres to address a conference or meeting on sustainability education or sustainable practices topics please email aedwards@edutracks.com or call (415) 457-1171.
